When your crops are ready to harvest, make sure you hire someone to harvest them for you so that you make more money. For the first few days, re-invest all the money you make into planting new crops. Potatoes are a good starter crop since they take a single day to grow. You'll then find you have made a decent enough profit to at least buy a couple of fence pieces. Always re-plant your plowed squares before spending money so that you have a constant source of income
